Chargesheet full movie 2011

Story: Retired top cop Gambhir Singh (Dev Anand) wants to bring home his errant son-in-law (Divya Dutta), after she walks out on her husband and son to pursue her dream of becoming a star. But he was involved in a murder case, when he was shot in a guest house housing a film unit, led by Jackie Shroff and financed by Naseeruddin Shah, an Indian gangster based in Dubai. Will Gambhir Singh clear his name. More importantly, will he catch India's most wanted gangster, Naseer? Film Review: Actually speaking, a Dev Anand film defies all rating systems. Just because of the fact that this cinema doyen is still making movies and still has so much to say... Yes, on the Chargesheet also he condemns the corruption that has frightened the police and reminds the nation there are lawbreakers still waiting to be arrested outside the borders. But more than all this, he still sees himself as the main protagonist: hero to age, complete with hat, stick, button collar and scarf, leading the investigation in a case that somehow has the nation's interests at heart and involves the Interior Minister (Amar Singh, neta) as well. Time and again, you have Dev Anand hanging out with Amar Singh who gives him seven days to solve the case and catch don absconding as well. Needless to say, this is the most comic scene of the film. Other actors are quite irrelevant, including random girls and boys who keep flying on screen. Dev saab takes care of all the drama... And to be honest, sit to the end to watch him. You can help Wikipedia by expanding it.vte Taken from Cast: Dev Anand, Jackie Shroff, Riya Sen, Divya Dutta, Naseeruddin Shah promises his stash of a big-budget Bollywood film. It's again a matter of wonder why an actor of Shah's caliber could do such bad acting. However, the audience soon loses all admiration as the story, if any, moves to Mahabaleshwar.Don's mistress comes to Panchgani where she meets film director Jackie Shroff who is more than happy to accept a film financed by don. It seems that every actor competes with the other to come up with a worse acting. It's still easier to tolerate Shroff in late night herbal tea ads than on the 'Chargesheet'. The director, who has made many hit films with Minnie Singh (Divya Dutta) in the past, doesn't want to repeat it anymore because the underworld doesn't want to launch his stash through the film. Minnie threatens the director to expose their liaison in front of her family and the director suddenly decides to get her killed through the underworld. Meanwhile, Minnie also tries to seduce the hero Suraj (Chirag Patil) from the film to recommend her as a hero but she also refuses to comply. Minnie threatens him too and the hero also decides to get him killed. Suddenly a man breaks into the hero's room and threatens him to return home. This man happens to be his father-in-law Gambhir Singh (Dev Anand), a former high-profile police officer. Minnie threatened him too, but this guy didn't mention the underworld. He tried to kill Minnie at the time with his bare hands. Somehow, he spared Minnie's life, but she was killed that night alone. Now, the police are chasing a chase Singh's life is determined to solve this case. Dev Anand's track record in recent years stops us from asking for a story but no one knows that he will treat it as a privilege. He has become more ruthless as a storyteller. Of course to the audience. Dialogue writers have done such a clever job that one becomes confused between crying and laughing. Look at this conversation that can fool every sane person in the world. Kahan Hua Tha's interrogation? (Where does the interrogation take place?) Mein's interrogation room. (In the interrogation room.) The film is full of such dialogue. Each character appears and gives his verbal introduction sometimes lasting up to two minutes. It needless to say that the introduction includes all useful information ranging from the name of their neighbor to their philosophy in life. One can find zooming in or out of the camera whenever the idea evaporates in their mind. Every time you change sides in a chair, someone slaps someone. Either Dev Anand has serious doubts about the mindset of the audience or he has reached the stage as he enjoys on the expanse of Warner Brothers and poor moviegoers. A collage of blank faces, 'Chargesheet' has a completely unexpected climax. The film's surprise list doesn't end even in the final scene. Perhaps, no one on this earth can explain where and why the film director managed to start a riot in Panchgani, where small villagers were armed with Light Machine Guns and several other high-end weapons. Never stop as soon as you're not familiar with the biggest surprises of the film. yes, there's one left. Amar Singh, yes politician, has played the role of interior minister on the 'Chargesheet', and dare not think that he will entertain you for a period lower than 2-3 minutes. Amar Singh looks for a pretty good duration but he shouldn't be blamed because Singh is the only actor who looks natural and who doesn't swing after every second. There's a song by Asha Bhosle with Riya Sen dancing on it but it happens at the beginning only, making you unguarded for the rest of the film. Overall, it's just respect for Dev Anand that people will go to the cinema hall, if not after 'Chargesheet', people won't dare watch another movie.#### Chargesheet is a suspenseful drama film directed by the legendary Dev Anand starring himself, Naseeruddin Shah, Jackie Shroff, Divya Dutta, Yashpal Sharma, Riya Sen, Milind Gunaji and said to be inspired by the mysterious death of Hindi film actress Divya Bharti.Filmly Pass Learn more Edit An underworld Don wants to throw his stash in the big budget film he came to, he came to meet film director Mahesh in Panchgani who was more eager to direct the film as it was Mini is a top star who has given many hits with Mahesh but he doesn't want to throw it again Mini threatens him to expose their secret relationship in return Mahesh threatens him to kill.
